Sometimes I write...

Sometimes I write...

Sometimes I write to ink my insight

Of a world, a moment on the verge of plight.

Sometimes I write to capture moments photographed

In the book of memories, with my web of words and art.

Sometimes I write to stain my thoughts

To explain a few, I end up in lots

For they have their own language, they have their own way

Travelling your world with a transient stay.

Sometimes I write to quench my desire

With resonating words, adding fuel to the fire.

This wanderlust of flight

To many hearts that might

Find my words just right

For a moment in their life.

Sometimes I write...
